

SOC 315 Research Methods in Population (2 Units)

An introduction to the various research method most commonly used in population analysis. Sources of demographic data (censuses, vital statistics, etc.) ; measures of fertility; mortality and migration. The Life Table – its nature, construction, and uses. Demographic aspects of the labour force.